● Stage 1 - Pewterschmidt's - 804 miles

The Eastern Endurance starts at the old harbor in Portland, Maine before riders pedal across the White Mountains. A trip back to the coast and down along the ports and fishing villages of Boston proper is followed by a meandering ride through Thoreau's stomping grounds. Stage 1 makes the Hudson Loop and finishes with a long haul into Nashua, NH on Day 7.

● Stage 2 - Rusticuppers - 944 miles

After a days rest, Stage 2 winds its way south out of Montpelier before trekking back north along the western shore of Lake Champlain. Two long days in the Adirondacks concludes the upstate journey as stage 2 follows a century ride from Johnstown to Syracuse. Tired legs push on for two back-to-back feats of strength along Lake Ontario and through western New York farmlands, finishing in Ithaca 15 days into the race.

● Stage 3 - Quackerlunds - 1038

Day 17 begins with a century ride in NE Pennsylvania dairyland, followed by a solid workout as the course winds through Allegheny country. Steel alloy cranks spin for two solid days through America's Steel Belt before embarking on the longest leg of the Eastern Endurance 1982, a 213 mile do-or-die day will push all competitors to the limit as they climb the mid-Appalachian Mountains. The final day of the race will seem like a sprint, when after 2786 miles, riders finish in the City of Brotherly Love, Philadelphia, PA.
